SPANISH "FLU" HAS BOSTON IN TRAGIC GRIP

UNIVERSITY IS OFFERING BIG OPPORTUNITY

A big opportunity awaits the high school graduates enrolling in the fall term of the University of Washington who enter the engineering course. If they show proficiency in chemistry and are of strong racial character to make officers, the university will be recommended by the commanding officers of the unit for admission to the main engineering school at West Point or to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. The actual graduation course for cadets follows a course of one year and six months at the University of Washington, followed by the last two years of the United States Army.

Students who enter the school are in line for a commission, and upon finishing the postgraduate course will be commissioned engineers in the United States Army. Students will be assigned as engineer officers, having charge of the property machinery of units that supply troops and the like, and will receive full military training.

The daily direct instruction in the main engineering school will also be available in the University of Washington. The commanding officers of the main engineering school will also be available in the University of Washington. Whole City on Guard Against Spread of Strange New Malady That Takes Huge Death Toll

Public health officials are warning that a new and deadly disease, known as "Spanish flu," is spreading rapidly through Boston. The disease is characterized by a sudden onset of symptoms, including high fever, chills, and a severe headache. In many cases, the illness is fatal within a few days. Health officials are urging the public to take precautions, such as avoiding crowded places and wearing masks, to help prevent the spread of the disease.

ALL ABOUT SPANISH "FLU"

(By the Local Staff, Public Health Service)

No other communicable disease makes epidemic progress so rapidly or attacks indiscriminately so large a proportion of the population as does Spanish influenza, therefore, while diseases that kill are common, this is probably true that there has been a wide prevalence of the disease.

Public health officials have been characterized by general protection and all attempts to the intensity of the disease have it is not surprising that the disease has spread so rapidly, the effects of the influenza virus, as reported.

The latest outbreak appears to be characterized by a sudden onset of the illness, which is usually fatal within a few days of the beginning of the disease.
