

GRIMSTAD-BROWN WOOL BRINGS 45 CENTS A POUND

The best price for wool received in this section as far as is known is that just received by Grimstad & Brown, who consigned 110,000 pounds to the National Wool Warehouse company in Chicago. This company, owned by growers and managed by Matt Staff, sold the clip to net the local firm practically 45 cents a pound.

The improvement in the price of wool since a year ago has been over 100 per cent, as in October of 1921 it was selling around 20 cents. The price last spring before shearing averaged probably below 35 cents. Those who held until shearing time or after received as high as 40 cents.
