

New Test For Toluca.
J. Burton Wood has announced intention to drill another test well on the Toluca dome and has secured financing for the well in Rochester, Minn. O. K. Grimstad and Rockwood Brown, local attorneys, have drilled one well on the structure, but it was shut down before test of all horizons of possible oil production had been made. The well, however, has not been abandoned. Wood will drill on location several miles from the first well.

Second Test Drilling Planned for Toluca
