

DELEGATES IN COWBOY ATTIRE TO REPRESENT KIWANIS CLUB

Snell and Brown Don Regalia at Luncheon To Give Members Glimpse of Makeup.

A glimpse of the way George E. Snell, president of the Kiwanis club, and Rockwood Brown, past president, will appear in Cleveland within the next couple of weeks when they represent the local club at the organization's national convention, was had at the weekly luncheon in the Commercial club cafe Tuesday noon. When the delegates entered they were seized by the convention committee and compelled to array themselves in sombreros, woolly chaps, six-guns, and gay neckerchiefs. Then they were escorted to a pair of high saw-horses, fully saddled, instructed to mount, and the remainder of the entertainment was left to the impromptu ingenuity of two lawyers suddenly transformed into roaring cowboys. They did roar and ki-yi, and give a satisfactory demonstration of the way they will perform at Cleveland.

FUNERAL SERVICES ARE HELD FOR FRED E. KEIL

Funeral services for the late Fred E. Keil were held yesterday morning from the family residence at 1007 North Thirtieth street, with the Rev. George Mahlon Miller in charge.

The room in which the service was held was filled with flowers sent as tokens of esteem from the many friends of the family. The Rev. Mr. Miller read the funeral service, said a prayer and gave a short talk. Mrs. J. I. Wernham and Mrs. John Sizoo sang two duets, "The Lord Is Thy Shepherd" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Following the services at the home members of the Masonic lodge were a funeral escort to the grave in the Billings cemetery, where the Rev. Mr. Miller conducted a short service, and then the Masons conducted the ritualistic ceremonies.

The following friends were active
