

Keith Brown "Bails" Jeff Out of Jail

Keith Brown, while attending the Y. M. C. A. camp, was unable to watch Jeff, a bird dog about as big as his master, and he strayed to the wild west show grounds Monday evening only to be lured on to join the show. But Jeff is again in the hands of his master, who says he is going to keep a closer watch on him.

Jeff was picked up by one of the men with the Miller Brothers show here recently and taken to Livingston. The manager of the show sent the dog back to Billings and discharged the man who took him.

Since his arrival here, Jeff has been in the "bull pen" of the city jail and apparently was not pleased with his associates during the last few days in prison, as shown by his delight over getting out to roam the street and trot along with his master. ***
