

Cordero Is Found Guilty of Larceny

J. M. Cordero, charged with petty larceny, was tried Wednesday afternoon before Judge William Gallagher, justice of the peace, and found guilty. His sentence is to be pronounced Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The complaint filed against him in justice court alleges that he took $25 from the El Campo tourist park. The complaint was signed by Rockwood Brown.

King George recently gave a tea party near London for 700 poor men and women.

El Campo Employee Found Guilty of Larceny

Clipped By:

seabix1

Wed, Mar 31, 2021