

STATE HOUSE NOTES

The state house was visited Monday by two people who formerly were connected with the Vermont legislature, and who are now following successful careers in other parts of the country.

One was Millward C. Taft of Washington, D. C., formerly of Chelsea, who for several sessions was secretary of the senate. He was accompanied by his wife and by Mrs. H. H. Votaro of Washington, a sister of former President Warren Harding.

The other former Vermonter was Rockwood Brown of Billings, Montana, who 35 years ago was a page in the Vermont legislature. He is now a commissioner of highways in Montana.

All registered at the information booth of the bureau of publicity, and were shown around the capitol.
