

21 Oil Workers Arriving in Vernal This Weekend

The population of Vernal will be swelled this weekend by the arrival of 21 men, 19 of whom will bring families, to work on Carter's new well, Rockwood Brown No. 1, located nine and a half miles southwest of Vernal, NE $\frac{1}{4}$ SW $\frac{1}{4}$ Sec. 5, Twp. 5S, R20E.

Roads to the new well have been completed and rotary tools and equipment have moved in. The rig is in the process of being erected and spudding in should commence on or before the first week in January.

The well will be drilled to a depth of 9000 feet in the basal Greenriver formation.
