SAYS CLAIM IS VALUABLE.

P. G. Cook, owner of a ranch near Edgar and now of Elkhart, Ind., left last night after visiting his place, near which he has a mining claim on a deposit of bentonite. Mr. Cook said that two eastern firms had made him offers on the claim, but that he expects to develop the property himself. The bentonite is a substance similar to talcum, he said, and is readily marketable as an ingredient of tooth paste, medicines, and massage creams. While here Mr. Cook sold his stock and machinery and rented his ranch to Elmer Knight of Edgar.
