

Beauty Clay Basis Found at Greybull Waits Development

Greybull, Wyo., Feb. 20.—The appearance of W. C. Sherr, California capitalist, in Greybull to inspect deposits of bentonite clay in this vicinity has brought new hope to the townspeople, as the development of this mineral is anticipated. The fact that government chemists have pronounced the Greybull bentonite the purest known, has resulted in several companies being formed to exploit beauty clay and other compounds of which bentonite is the basis. The immense deposits are so easily mined that it can be loaded in cars here for $7 a ton. The mineral brings a market price of more than $20 a ton in Chicago. **

Beauty Clay Called Bentonite Found at Greybull

Clipped By:

seabix1

Wed, Apr 14, 2021