

Billings-based Wyo-Ben, Inc. will receive $49,000 to hire 10 more employees. The money will also be used for construction and wage reimbursement.

The 70-year-old company mines Wyoming sodium bentonite, which is used in many products including sealers in ponds, liners for hazardous waste, animal feed, and cat litter, said president and CEO David Brown.

The company's new division, Wyo-Ben Pet, will manufacture and sell cat litter to other brands.
